

Journal

Pretend you are the main character in the book. You are keeping a journal, and you need to make 5 entries that answer the question at the top of the page.

1. Details, details, details
2. Use information from the story
3. You must write at least 100 words for each journal entry.

The journal that you turn in to your teacher is a GOOD COPY. This means that you should first make a rough draft of your work. Then you should revise and edit your work before creating the journal you will turn in during the first week of school.
